Orthodox Purple Kenyan Tea

Orthodox Purple Tea is a unique and rare variety of tea grown exclusively in Kenya. Derived from the Camellia sinensis plant with purple-tinged leaves, this tea is celebrated for its distinctive flavor profile, vibrant infusion, and exceptional health benefits. It is processed using traditional orthodox methods, preserving the natural beauty and complexity of the tea leaves.

Key Features:

Leaf Appearance: Whole or slightly twisted leaves with a characteristic purple hue, a result of high levels of anthocyanins (antioxidants).

Infusion Color: Light reddish-purple to pink liquor, depending on brewing conditions.

Flavor Profile: Mild, earthy, and slightly floral with a unique tangy aftertaste less astringent than black tea.

Aroma: Subtle and fragrant, with earthy and floral notes.

Use: Perfect as a standalone loose-leaf tea or paired with lemon to enhance its vibrant color and tangy flavor.

Pricing: Pricing varies based on the rarity of the tea, the intricacy of the processing methods, and the overall flavor and health benefits.

Health Benefits:

High in antioxidants, particularly anthocyanins, which are known for their anti-inflammatory and anti-aging properties.

May aid in reducing cholesterol and regulating blood sugar levels.

Low caffeine content, making it suitable for all-day enjoyment.

Orthodox Purple Kenyan Tea stands out as a luxurious and health-conscious choice for tea lovers seeking a unique and flavorful tea experience. Its rarity and vibrant infusion make it a prized addition to premium tea collections.
